Fall of Seoul is Confirmed in Washington

HISTORIC STEP IS EXPLAINED BY PRESIDENT

Tells Reserve Officers He Hopes Action Will Preserve Peace of the World

JOHNSON IS SPEAKER

Washington, June 28—(P)—President Truman said today he hopes the United States decision to challenge the onward march of Communism will mean "peace in the world."

The president addressed the Reserve Officers Association whose members stood and cheered when he came before them at the Mayflower Hotel.

Smilingly acknowledging their demonstration, Mr. Truman then solemnly told them:

"We face a serious situation."

He went on to say he hopes his decision would serve the cause of our country and a peaceful world.

Before Mr. Truman spoke, Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson described the Sunday night White House decision to send planes and warships to the aid of South Korea as "the finest hour in American history."

Johnson also told the Reserve Association that the national defense is stronger than ever before in our peacetime history.

Carrying out Mr. Truman's momentous decision, American planes already were in action in Korea.

From this country, an increasing volume of war materials was pouring into Pacific pipelines to strengthen the front against Communism all along the line drawn by the president against Communist aggression.

Mr. Truman's talk to the Reserve Association was off the cuff, without benefit of prepared manuscript.

In chatty vein, he spoke for several minutes without mention of Korea or the weekend developments.

Stressing the importance of civilian as well as military service, he said he has had difficulty in getting the right men to fill important posts in government.

It is not only because of lower government compensation, he said, but men who serve in government posts have to stand "a certain amount of criticism" that is "not deserved."

He praised the Reserve Officers Association and said he was "proud to be a reserve officer."

Then, in a light vein, he said he still has a commission although

The bids were opened late yesterday afternoon at an informal meeting of the directors of the Warren Industrial and Development Corporation (WIDCO), a newly-formed organization which will build the plant with local capital and lease it to Sylvania.

Lloyd Cleveland, WIDCO secretary, said the Beyer bid for the structural steel and composition concrete block building was $99,028, including $13,900 for cost of the steel.

A total of six bids were filed with the corporation directors, with the price ranging from the $99,028 figure upwards to $145,368. Three of the bids came from local firms.

A formal meeting of the directors of the corporation is expected to be held within a few days to officially award the contract to Beyer. Construction will get under way soon after the contract is signed, with completion expected within four months.

The bid for the building did not include the plumbing, heating or electrical work. Separate bids will be received later for this phase of the construction.

Pocket of Cool Air Brushes Off Hot Wave

By The Associated Press
A pocket of cool air brought temporary relief to most portions of Pennsylvania today but the combination of heat and humidity was expected to return soon.

The weatherman said the mercury would not go higher than 80 in eastern Pennsylvania with sunny skies prevailing today. The western portion of the commonwealth is in for cloudy skies and slightly warmer weather with showers due this afternoon.

Yesterday, a record high of 93 for June 27 was set at Philadelphia as the mercury passed the 90-mark for the fourth straight day.

TWO THRUSTS SPEARHEADED BY RED TANKS

Washington, June 28—(P)—The Defense Department confirmed today that the South Korean capital of Seoul has fallen.

The army report here also stated that nearby Kumpo airport is in North Korean hands, and that Inchon Seaport is probably untenable.

But the report added that despite loss of these three key points, morale of the South Korean forces remains high.

An army spokesman said that there had been "no sabotage, no subversive action and no guerrilla warfare" against South Korean forces.

The North Korean invaders apparently have more and heavier tanks than was originally reported, the army said.

A Pentagon spokesman said Seoul apparently was captured by two North Korean thrusts spearheaded by about 100 tanks. Late reports identified some of these tanks as Russian manufactured T-34s—identified as 35-ton tanks mounting 76 mm or 88 mm guns.

Other North Korean armor has been identified as Russian-built T-70s—12 ton tanks mounting lighter guns.

How the president himself regards the situation created by the Red invasion of South Korea and his determination to strike back with force may be disclosed in the course of the day. He was scheduled to speak to a meeting of the Reserve Officers Association this morning and to the American Newspaper Guild Convention in the afternoon.

Some discussion of the new American position in the Far East and its effects on the east-west struggle elsewhere in the world was also expected from Secretary of State Acheson at a news conference.

There appeared to be no doubt among top officials that whatever the outcome of the present crisis they had done the right thing in deciding to go to the support of South Korea, once the U. N. Security Council had ordered the northern invaders out. They have long argued that the only way to stop aggression is to use force against force.

And while the president took a calculated risk of war with Russia in making the decision on Korea, advisers argued that any policy smacking of appeasement would have been even riskier by encouraging the Kremlin to count on American weakness not only in Korea but elsewhere.

Mr. Truman, Acheson and others were reported greatly cheered by the speed with which cold war allies abroad and political leaders at home rallied in the warlike atmosphere to support the American action.

Officials said any hopes the Soviets may have held that the bold course would divide the nation and the free world must have been dashed by the actual developments.

At Lake Success, N. Y., the United Nations Security Council voted 7 to 1 for an American resolution endorsing the president's decision—little more than 10 hours after he announced it to the world. Russia as usual did not attend the meeting.

Acheson called the invasion a cynical, brutal attack by armed force against an unoffending people and volunteered some comment but his replies to questions were given with obvious caution.

This government is deeply gratified that reaction from the free world has been almost unanimously favorable to the American policy of supporting the UN with force.

There has been no response from Moscow to yesterday's American request that Russia use its influence with the North Korea regime to restore peace in Korea. Reporters could draw their own conclusions.

FIRST AMERICAN SOLDIERS SEE ACTION AS U. S. AIRMEN BLAST SOVIET-MADE TANKS

Tokyo, Thursday, June 29—(P)—South Korea's army, scattered and chewed by big Russian-made tanks of the northern invaders, struggled today to form a new line a score of miles south of their fallen capital of Seoul.

Seoul and its airfield, Pimpoo, 16 miles west, fell to the Communist invaders Wednesday after a see-saw struggle since the start of the Red onslaught Sunday.

Loss of Seoul and Kimpo and concession that Inchon, Seoul's port 20 miles west, was probably untenable, were confirmed by the United States Defense Department in Washington.

The Communists, betraying the completeness of their invasion preparations, quickly began broadcasting from Seoul, introduced Lee Sun Yup, defense minister of the Northern regime, as the new mayor of Seoul.

In the broadcast, heard in Tokyo, Lee even ordered Seoul schools to reopen today.

Carrying out President Truman's orders for American air and naval support for the hard-pressed South Korean troops, the U. S. Far East Air Forces announced its jet fighters and light bombers effectively attacked North Korean positions northwest of Seoul on Wednesday.

Tokyo, June 28—(P)—The first American foot soldiers went into the South Korean shooting war tonight. U. S. airmen blasted six heavy Russian built tanks and lost two planes in crashes.

The first ground detachment was a Signal Corps outfit dispatched by General MacArthur to set up a field headquarters somewhere in the south of Korea.

As they moved in, Seoul, the southern capital, reportedly fell to the invading Communists. Kimpo, the capital's airfield 16 miles to the west, was in enemy hands.

A Red sweep to the south was only eight miles from Suwon, where at least a few Americans were reported. Suwon is 20 miles south of Seoul.

U. S. Ambassador John J. Muccio and his staff were reported safe, 90 miles southeast of Seoul.

Pilots returning from American bombing attacks on the Northern invaders said from all appearances the capital was in Red hands.

Landing at a southern Japanese airbase the pilots, some of whose planes were shot up by Red ground machineguns, said they saw heavy fighting but were unable to determine how the battle was going.

O. H. P. King, Associated Press correspondent who landed at Suwon, 20 miles south of Seoul, said Kimpo airfield, 16 miles west and slightly north of Seoul, had been captured by the Reds.

He said Red forces were advancing on Suwon, the designated capital of the Republic if Seoul fell. King reported Communist troops scarcely eight miles from Suwon.

He quoted an American officer as saying Seoul had fallen.

Maj. A. E. Shook of Clovis, N. M., one of several pilots who knocked out six Russian made heavy tanks from the air in the first American raids on the invaders, pictured Seoul as in the hands of the Communists.

None of the pilots returning to Japan were injured.

They reported no Russian made fighter planes were in the air against them.

The fall of Seoul was first reported by the Red radio from Pyongyang, northern capital.

(Two other Korean radio broadcasts, both from Seoul, said the city had been captured.)

There was no indication from General MacArthur's headquarters (Turn to Page Eleven)

Jamboree City at Valley Forge Shoots Up Much Like Jet-Powered Beantank

Valley Forge, June 28—(P)—The nation's newest and fastest-growing city—officially dubbed "Jamboree 1950"—shot up like a jet-powered beantank today.

It's only a tent town, to be sure—a soon-to-be-torn-down boomtown along the silty Schuylkill river.

But practically all of the 30,000-plus Boy Scouts and leaders who will be in residence by tonight would trade you New York, Philadelphia and a dozen other metro-polises for a single section of the 625-acre tract that houses their second national jamboree.

By Friday, official opening day, some 47,000 will be on hand—about five times the number of the frost-bitten soldiers that stood by Gen. George Washington in these same rolling hills in the hard winter of 1777-78.

It's by no means wintry as the Scouts arrive 173 years later. A merciless sun has driven the temperature into the 90's. Sunburn reddens the cheeks of the Scouts and scorches the bald pates of

Conference On Youth Attracts Crowd Of Over One Hundred to Court House

More than 100 persons, representing organizations from all parts of the county, attended a conference on youth in the main courtroom of the county courthouse last night.

The conference was called as part of the preliminary work being done in preparation for the Midcentury White House Conference on Children and Youth called by President Truman.

A county committee was formed last night, with Mrs. Alexander Flick being elected chairman. Committees will be formed to survey existing facilities for youth and what are needed. General headings for the committee will include child health, welfare, recreation, education, juvenile delinquency, safety and religion.

The findings of the county committee will be coordinated with other reports on a regional basis, then on a state-wide level, and later will be used to form the worksheet for the White House Conference.

Some of the most pressing needs mentioned last night included a swimming pool and a community house for Warren.

Arrangements for last night's conference were made by Dr. Carl E. Whipple, temporary chairman. Mrs. A. R. Schultz, Mrs. Evelyn Gailor, Miss Frances Schimmel, H. L. Blair, and Mrs. Geraldine Johnson.

New Development At North Warren Is Building Up Rapidly

One of the largest new housing projects among the many that may be observed in rural communities adjacent to Warren is the Wetmore Farm Plot development at North Warren where there are eight homes in the process of construction, and, according to officials of the Warren Land Company, at least 14 others are in the process of getting preliminary details arranged so that building may start soon.

Owners of the eight homes now being erected are Clayton Stoldt, Floyd Kuhre, Jr., Robert Jewel, Donald Wagner, John Gross, John Baker, Ed Jacoy and Harold Seymour.

There are 46 lots in the development, which is located north of the Wetmore residence recently acquired by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barley for use as a nursing home. Along State street the lots are 75x150, and those bordering on the back street are 80x150. Two new streets, Dittmars and Weatherly, have been cut through the section, which is being serviced by the Warren Water Company, through the Keystone Construction Company, the Pennsylvania Gas Company, the Pennsylvania Electric Company, as well as the Bell Telephone Company. The electric and telephone companies will use the same poles.

Real estate company officials predict that all lots will be sold and homes started in a surprisingly short time. Some of the homes are being erected by the Carr Equipment Co., of Randolph, N. Y., while the Webster Brothers, Everett and Herbert, of Russell, have contracts for others.

Former Y Secretary Here Is Director Of Camp Kawabi, Can.

Many Warren people will be interested in learning that Ralph H. Wagner, formerly general secretary of the local YMCA, will be the director of Camp Kawabi, an older boys Canadian northwoods camp, and that Mr. Wagner will be director of health for the same camp, for the 1950 season.

Kawabi, a new wilderness camp designed to appeal to advance campers from a wide geographical area, has been a development of the Niagara Falls, N. Y., Y. M. C. A. under the executive direction of Mr. Wagner. The construction of a new infirmary building, which will be in Mrs. Wagner's charge, is one of the 1950 improvement in the camp, which is located on Big Hawk Lake in the Haliburton Highlands region of Ontario, Canada.

Mr. Wagner has emphasized in talking with Warren YMCA officials that Kawabi is a non-profit "Y" camp intended to serve older boys of 13 years and up from many cities and towns of several states.

Warren boys, "Y" members and non-Y members, are invited by the local YMCA to give consideration to Camp Kawabi as they plan their summer vacations.

The camp opens on July 8 and operates for six weeks until August 19, and campers may attend for 2, 4 or 6 weeks. A new feature is being added this year in the setting aside of the last week in August as a men's and young men's week. Some local men may be interested in investigating this as they look forward to their summer vacations.

Boys, parents or others desiring literature and more detailed information are invited to get in touch with staff members of the local YMCA.

Action On Finances Taken By School Board Involve Many Phases of Program

Many phases of the Warren borough school program were represented in action on finances taken by school board members at their June meeting at the high school building.

One of the most important of these was the school lunch program, through which hundreds of students in Warren and surrounding towns secure full or partial lunches. Following reports for the last two months of the term, the board approved payment of $3,676.42 for supplies and $924.15 for services in May; $1,169.43 for supplies and $440.80 for services in June.

In this connection, Business Manager John G. Rossman reported that with a total school enrollment of 2,829 pupils, 99,614 Type-A lunches were served at the high school and Beatty building during the term, and an additional 122,404 Type-C lunches (milk) were served at all buildings.

Total cafeteria costs for the year were $41,793.64, of which food and other expenditures amounted to $33,882.71 and labor, $7,910.93. Mr. Rossman showed, also, a cash operating balance of $1,598.09 from previous years; a food inventory balance of $517.86; equipment valued at $7,500; and subsidies by the federal government, paid through the state, of $11,414.34.

School district receipts for the month showed $888.77 for tuition of orthogenic pupils remaining from 1948; $1,363.75 toward the lunch program; $269.25 for the medical program; $232.69 settlement from the Levi Smith Estate Fund; $4 from Justice of the Peace T. M. Greenlund in compulsory attendance fines.

Presented by the finance committee, bills for the month were approved in the amount of $9,906 from general funds, $11,206.19 toward the Home street annex construction, and $6,634.26 from activities funds.

ABC ON KOREA

James Marlow, Associated Press feature writer in Washington, explains how we came to get mixed up in Korea in the following manner:

Korea, with its 85,000 square miles, is about the size of Utah. It juts out from the northeast coast of Asia, almost touching Japan.

Korea now is divided into two Koreas: North and South. The dividing line, very important in this story, is the 38th parallel of latitude.

North of the line, where the population is about 10,000,000 Koreans, is the Communist-run, Russian-sponsored government called "The Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

South of the 38th parallel, and backed by the U. S., is the Republic of Korea. Its population is about 20,000,000 Koreans.

South Korea is largely agricultural. Most of the industry is in the North. So both Koreas need each other but haven't been able to get together peacefully.

This is not the first time the United States has had a hand in Korea's fate.

In 1907, after Russia had lost its war with Japan, those two nations signed their treaty of peace at Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

President Theodore Roosevelt assured the Japanese this country would look upon it favorably if the Japanese took control over Korea, which at the time was all one Korea and had its own government.

The Japanese took control, abused and despoiled the Koreans, and in 1910 just made Korea part of Japan. In 1919 some Korean patriots asked the Japanese to let Korea have its independence back.

They were slaughtered. But other Korean patriots, outside Korea, set up a temporary government-in-exile. They elected Dr. Syngman Rhee president. He had studied at Princeton University under Woodrow Wilson.

Then World War II. In 1943—at a Cairo conference with other leaders of the Allies—President Franklin D. Roosevelt agreed that when Japan was licked the Koreans should have their independence again.

In 1945, when the war was coming to an end, there were Japanese troops in Korea but neither Russian nor American troops. Russian troops were on Korea's northern border. American troops were no closer than Okinawa, 600 miles away.

If the war suddenly ended, the Russians could rush down and take over all of Korea. Then, State Department people explain, this is what happened:

The heads of the U. S. Army, Navy and State Department figured out a plan. When the war ended, Russians would come into Korea from the north and accept the surrender of all Japanese forces north of the 38th parallel and occupy the country there; American troops would enter from the south, accept the surrender of Japanese troops south of the 38th parallel, and occupy the country there.

The Japanese offered to surrender Aug. 10, 1945. The Russians entered Korea Aug. 12. The Americans didn't arrive until Sept. 18.

(Finally, the U. N. decided to let the Koreans set up their own government, as promised at Cairo, by holding their own elections. Since the U. N. people couldn't get into the North, the elections were held in the South.

The southern republic began life on Aug. 15, 1948. On Sept. 9, 1948, the Russians established the northern republic. Finally both Russian and the U. S. announced they had withdrawn all their occupying troops from Korea. The U. S. left behind, it said, 500 officers and men to train the Southern Koreans.

The North and South remained apart, with the Communist-run North pecking away at the South. Finally, this week it attacked the South. But the U. S. had promised to help Korea if trouble started. Yesterday President Truman sent help.

DON'T COUNT HIM OUT

A few months ago Senator Vandenberg of Michigan was pretty well written off as far as further active service was concerned. He planned to retire in 1952, and illness looked to be a bar to any real duty between now and then.

Since that time the Michigan Republican, long his party's leading foreign affairs spokesman, has had additional operations and at least appears definitely on the road to recovery. On top of that, his wife has died, creating a void in his life that he would like to fill with hard work.

So his political friends are saying that within the next year he may be back in a full-time role in the Senate, and may even decide to run for re-election in 1952.

Vandenberg's return, if it comes to pass, promises to be a powerful factor for co-operation between the parties on foreign issues.

"Excuse Us While We See How Deep It Goes!"

Here And There

The local Shrine club delegation that left here June 9th on an extended tour of the west and northwest in connection with a visit to the annual Shrine convention in Los Angeles last week, will arrive in Erie Friday morning, and complete the last leg of a transcontinental trip on a chartered bus from the Lake City to Warren. The party left Los Angeles June 23rd after enjoying three days witnessing the Imperial parade and the Hollywood electrical pageant, declared one of the most spectacular ever produced. Over 100,000 Shriners and friends attended the festivities incident to the convention. Many former Warren people, not only in Los Angeles but at other points touched by the tourists, contacted the party. On the way home the tourists touched on the famous southern Utah parks, Salt Lake City, the Royal Gorge, Denver, Omaha and Chicago. And now for the first time we reveal the roster of the Warren delegation that made up the party: Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hagenlocher, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Walker and daughter Meredith, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Locke, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Schorman and son Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blomquist and daughter Nancy, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Painter, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moll, Mr. and Mrs. George Juline, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ellett, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Rasmussen, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lutz, F. J. Haggerty, also in local party were Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Davis, of Greenville; Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Caswell and Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Anderson, Bradford.

This and That: WNAE Radio station listeners had the pleasure of listening to an interesting interview between Miss Charlotte Jones, announcer, and celebration Queen Peggy Hartweg on the Betty Lee program Tuesday afternoon. Frequently we have made reference in this column to questions we have been asked to answer, to settle arguments. Well, one of these came in via telephone Tuesday afternoon, pertaining to a building on lower Market street.

Action by Manufacturers Held To Be Cause of Pepper Defeat

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Service Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (NEA)—A claim that the recent Florida primary election defeat of Democratic Senator Claude Pepper was engineered by Florida manufacturers is made here by Arthur C. Conde, executive vice president of the Indiana Manufacturers' Assn. In this election the winner was Rep. George A. Smathers of Miami, to whom Mr. Conde says Associated Industries of Florida gave all-out support. While it is only natural to wonder what an Indiana manufacturer knows about political conditions in Florida, Mr. Conde's claims present a story that hangs together. This story is somewhat in conflict with previous political dope.

During the campaign there were various loose charges by Senator Pepper's supporters and unnamed "big northern manufacturing interests" who "spent their winters in Florida" were financing and backing Representative Smathers. These charges were denied by the Smathers campaign managers.

Experienced Washington political reporters who visited Florida during the campaign also said they could find no direct evidence of this big northern money. And after the election the general interpretation given was that the Smathers victory was merely an indication that the Florida voters had turned away from the New Deal-Fair Deal philosophy of Senator Pepper.

According to Mr. Conde's account, the story is by no means so simple. It begins last year at a meeting of the National Industrial Council at a Colorado resort. Mr. Conde says the general strategy of the anti-Pepper campaign was planned at this meeting.

First, a little explanation of National Industrial Council is necessary to understand the background. It is a little-known organization, made up of the managers of 38 state manufacturers' associations.

All of the 38 state organizations are, of course, members of the NAM—the National Association of Manufacturers. The National Industrial Council, however, has no vote in NAM. The Council is rather the trade association of the secretaries or active managers—not the presidents—of the state associations.

INDIANA representative on the National Industrial Council is Mr. Conde. Florida's representative is Ted Bailey, the chief operating executive of Associated Industries of Florida.

At last year's Colorado meeting of the Council, Mr. Bailey spelled out the position of the Florida manufacturers on the Pepper candidacy for re-election. In general, they felt that if Pepper were re-elected manufacturing in Florida "would be done for."

Pepper's defeat was therefore considered a first order of business. Executives of the other state manufacturers' associations gave their experiences in political campaigns. And the campaign for Pepper's defeat was mapped out.

According to Mr. Conde, when Mr. Bailey returned to Florida, his staff was turned loose on this campaign. Experienced political organizers were put to work. The headquarters of Associated Industries of Florida was turned over to politics. And the Smathers machine was operated—most successfully, it must be admitted—by the Associated Industries.

What happened in Florida, says Mr. Conde, is typical of what is happening in other states. The political action program of the Indiana Manufacturers' Association has been reported in an earlier dispatch by this writer.

It was a speech by Earl Bunting, president of National Manufacturers' Association, before the Indiana Manufacturers' Association at French Lick, Ind., last year, which started the Hoosier organization on its present campaign of political education and influence, to put more responsible men on the tickets of both parties.

The subscriber wanted to know who erected the structure now known as the Annex Garage, and approximately what year. The most accurate information on the subject we could secure is that the garage was built by Ray Niver and George Schott about 1918 or 1919. Later Niver, who is now located in Erie, bought out his partner Schott. In 1928 Lonzo Blackwell and Martin Swanson purchased the garage from Niver. Blackwell passed away about a year later, and Swanson continued to operate it until 1941 when he sold it to the present owner Don C. Smith. . . . A special train on the Pennsylvania Railroad passed through Warren Monday evening carrying Boy Scouts from the Erie area to the Jamboree at Valley Forge. . . . District Game Protector Bill Overturn is still looking for a house in Youngsville where he will be closer to his work in Warren county. Under the new setup his territory covers northwestern Warren county or practically all of the game lands north of the Allegheny river. . . . Directors of the Corry Country Club have announced that plans are being made for a big open house celebration Saturday, with the day's activities open to any and all residents of the city. The open house has been scheduled to acquaint residents of the city with the facilities available to members of the club. . . . Harry and Hazel Bailey are making plans to open their new Bailey Nursing Home in the former Wetmore mansion at North Warren, recently purchased by them for this purpose. It will be good news to their many friends and patrons to learn that they plan to continue operating their present nursing home in Prospect street. . . . The annual field day for patients and employees at the Warren State Hospital at North Warren will be held Friday. This year, it has been announced, the public will be denied admission to the grounds. The rule will be enforced because those in charge have been handicapped in previous years by presence of visitors not connected with the institution. Don't go to the hospital Friday afternoon, unless you have an invitation or urgent business. You'll be stopped at the gates. . . . The Kane Kiwanis Club has unanimously voted to make an official protest against the charging of admission at the national playground at Twin Lakes. It has been the custom at the park to maintain a lifeguard and to pay his wages from admissions received. The state and federal government, otherwise does not employ a lifeguard. Kiwanis club officials say prices were raised this year, as they were a year ago. Members of the club plan to take the protest to civic organizations in surrounding towns who use the park, asking them to join in presenting the protest to congressmen, representatives and other officials.

Anticipated Enrollment of 2,922 In The Borough Schools Next Term Revealed

Among the many year-end and annual reports presented at the June meeting of the board of education were those pertaining to attendance and estimated enrollment for next school term.

In his report of prospects for the new school year starting in early September, Dr. Carl Whipple showed an anticipated enrollment of 2,922, which does not include 150 pupils in the newly-reestablished kindergarten classes.

This figure represents an increase of 83 pupils over the 2,839 for the 1949-50 term and 2,777 in 1948-49. Surveys show an estimated enrollment of 1,240 in grades one to six, with 41 teachers, makes an average teacher-load of 30.2. Busy Junior High School will have 635 or 10 more than last year and the senior high school will have 810 or 85 more.

Promotion totals showed 97.7% passed their exams in elementary grades. The percentage of promotions from the first grade was the lowest, with 92, and the high school the highest, 100%.

Attendance figures for the final weeks of school showed 98% in May, the same as the previous year and 1% higher than in '48, when a May-June basis was used. June's attendance this year showed 99% against 98% last spring.

Dr. Whipple presented to the board, also, a summary of the annual report which he must file with the state superintendent of education. Under teacher-training, this showed an increase of 14 to 17% in master's degrees; 51 to 56% in bachelor's degrees, and a decrease from 33 to 25% in those having less preparation. Those holding certification from colleges increased from 63 to 73%, with the normal school certification dropping accordingly.

In service, the median teacher in Warren school system has 18.6 years of experience, 10 of which have been spent in Warren; 28 teachers have 30 or more years, 16 have 30 or more years in Warren, 11 are teaching their first year, and 13, their first year in Warren. Teacher salary median stands at $3,100, with the average $3,141.

LUDLOW

Ludlow, June 27.—On display at the Nelson Floral Gardens here is an unusual growing ivy vine known as "Passiflora" or "Passion Flower". The vine, emblematic of the Crucifixion of Christ, was obtained in Washington, D. C., by Mr. Duell of Starbuck, who ten months ago brought it to the local gardens for an indefinite keeping. Since then, however, the vine has flourished and spread over considerable surface. Discovery was made recently that the vine carried quite a profusion of buds, one within the past few days bursting into full bloom, made up of an arrangement of superb coloring, the inner section resembling a cross. Flower lovers privileged to catch sight of one of the blooms are enthusiastically interested.

The Daily Vacation Bible school held the past ten days in the Church of the Nazarene was brought to a close with observance of Parents' Night and an interesting exhibit of handwork done by the students. During the last week of the classes, a picnic supper and outing was held. The school was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Viola Doverspike, and a number of aides.

Mrs. Clyde LaDow was hostess to members of the Wednesday Night Social club. Five hundred occupied the evening after which refreshments were served. Prizes were presented to Margaret Swift, Jessie Bennett and Lottie Whyte.

Harry Tome, Jr., was guest of honor at a birthday party held at his home. A large group enjoyed outdoor games and refreshments. Among the numerous gifts presented the youngster was an attractive birthday cake. Hostesses were Mrs. Eulalia Burch and Mrs. Marian Tome.

Saturday evening in the Nazarene church, the Kings' Men Quartet of Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass., presented a program to a capacity audience. The edifice was made attractive with garden flower arrangements. The Pennsylvania local running through Corydon over the Olean-Oil City division for a great many

New Officers Of Auxiliary Council Take Over In Fall

Officers newly-elected by the American Legion Inter-County Council will be installed at the next regular council session, to be held the first Saturday in October in Bradford.

The new slate, headed by Mrs. Ralph A. Harrah, of Warren, as president, was printed in Monday's issue.

This Inter-County Council group is composed of 17 auxiliary units from Elk, Forest, McKean and Warren counties and meets quarterly to report and gather comparisons of auxiliary work.

Representing Chief Cornplanter Auxiliary at the Mt. Jewett sessions were the following delegates: Mrs. J. H. Driscoll, Mrs. George Cobb, Mrs. Sam Loomis, Mrs. Margaret Rowland, Mrs. William Germonito, Mrs. Ella Mauk, Mrs. Hazel Patchen, Mrs. Ella Wallace and Mrs. C. D. Cannon.

Mrs. Nina Kahle, of Reynoldsville, who is the western director gave out several national citations for meritorious service and for reaching membership quotas.

Mrs. Driscoll, local president, accepted the citation given the Warren unit for a membership of 448. 25 over the quota, and the largest unit in the council.

It was reported to the council that the covered grandstand at Coatesville Hospital, which was the special project of the Auxiliary in 1949 and 1950 and erected at a cost of $40,000, is in use and is greatly appreciated by patients and staff of the institution.

Money for this project was received largely by redeeming coupons sent in by units throughout the state and Mrs. George Cobb, department sub-chairman of coupons announced the Port Allegany unit had collected the largest number of coupons in this council.

COMMUNITY PARTY

The regular tureen supper honoring members of Stoneham community having birthdays this month will be held Thursday evening at the Stoneham Community house. Mrs. Gerald Archibald will show movies on the Bookmobile. Coffee and dessert will be furnished by the committee.

GRANGE VISITATION MEETING TONIGHT

All Grangers are welcome to attend the visitation meeting which will be held at Pleasant Grange Hall by Pleasant, Forest and Watson Granges this evening at eight o'clock. The program will be furnished by Watson.

EVER READY CLASS

Mrs. Louise Franklin will be hostess to the Ever Ready Class at her home in Starbrick Thursday evening at eight o'clock for the monthly meeting.

A convey is a group of quail, but not necessarily birds of the same family.

DAC Membership Has June Session

A one o'clock luncheon preceded the June meeting of Kanoagoa Chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, with members and friends seated at a long table centered with a bank of garden flowers.

Mrs. Antoinette Brown, of Meadville, a guest and sister of Miss Anna G. Snyder, gave the invocation. Other guests were Mrs. Esther Ely, Olean, N. Y., and Mrs. Nora Russell, Warren.

During the business session, routine affairs were disposed of. Instead of sending flowers when a member is deceased, the chapter decided that in the future suitable books placed in the Lillian Acomb Hunter Memorial Library would be a more fitting and lasting token of esteem for the departed one.

The many trips Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grangust have taken through southeastern Pennsylvania furnished material for the interesting talk Mrs. Grangust gave on the so-called Pennsylvania Dutch. Kanoagoa's next meeting will be held in October.

The name of the ouija board was compounded from the French and German words for "yes."

It's Time Husbands Started Opposing Family Break-Up

THE husband of Bette Davis, film star, has announced that he will fight his wife's impending divorce suit. "I've decided the most important thing in life for me is my daughter," he says. "Besides, I really should try to hold our marriage together. She is acting on impulse."

There's a modern switch to an old problem—the husband, instead of the wife, getting set to make a fight to save a home from being broken up. A husband, instead of a wife, deciding that the child is more important than anything else.

We can expect to see this switch more often as more and more women gain financial independence and feel they have a right to walk out on a marriage if it doesn't live up to their expectations.

PERHAPS, it will turn out to be a good thing. For women have carried the responsibility for holding marriages together far too long. We've grown used to the idea that it is the woman's sole responsibility to put up a fight when a marriage seems headed for the rocks. That if the woman doesn't decide that the children are more important than anything, and that a marriage is worth fighting to save—then there is no hope for the marriage at all.

But if husbands finally accept some responsibility for holding a marriage together through bad times, maybe marriage will come to be more of a joint responsibility and a real partnership.

After all, why shouldn't a man fight just as hard to keep his marriage from breaking up as a woman will fight to hold a home together—especially when children are involved?

And when a wife is economically independent, it may be the husband who has to put up the fight.

Pianist Includes 35th Anniversary Of Carl Norbecks In Senior Recital Marked By Parties

A good-sized audience of friends gathered attentively to the program presented by Dean Blair for his senior piano recital in Warren Conservatory of Music. Assisting him was Marilyn Loomis, mezzo soprano, of Youngsville.

A formal classical period was represented in three numbers by Dean Blair. The first of these, a composition by Vivaldi, was arranged by Blair under the title "Prelude and Aria" and was played by Mr. Blair in a masterly fashion that showed the fine deliberation and proper expression required of music of that particular epoch.

His second group held the attention of everyone, since Dean played two of his own compositions. These two works, praise worthy and musically interesting, were written in the modern style, replete with beautiful chords and melodies. The young pianist included, also, two impressionistic numbers, one by Niemann, the other by Debussy. They seemed to fit exactly into his style of playing, requiring a great deal of expression, color, imagination—his chief assets—and occasion of prolonged applause at their conclusion.

The climax of the evening was the great A Minor Concerto by Schumann. This concerto is a difficult one, but a favorite of the player, and those who heard his interpretation recognized great verve, a splendid technical grasp and fine expression. Lillian Larsen, his former teacher, furnished a colorful background at the second piano.

Miss Loomis sang her two groups with a wealth of beautiful tone and appropriate expression. Miss Lillian Swanson, also of Youngsville, furnished an artistic accompaniment for the singer.

YWCA Is Planning For October Hobby Show

At a meeting of the program committee of the YWCA, preliminary plans were made for a Hobby Show to be held in early October, the tentative arrangement calling for a two-day public exhibit in the gymnasium of the activities building.

Anyone having a hobby to display or demonstrate is asked to register at once at the "Y" office, 450, since the committee is eager to learn from any hobbyists interested in participating in the show.

Mrs. Hugh Logan, chairman of the committee, reminds, also, that the "YW" plans to offer classes in gym and ceramics early in the fall, with other instruction to be organized later in the season if there is sufficient interest.

At the same session, program committee members made tentative arrangements for a series of programs on family living, with topics and discussion leaders to be announced at a later date.

Sugar Grove, June 28—More than 100 friends and relatives attended open house held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Norbeck in celebration of their 35th wedding anniversary.

The delightful affair was planned by their children: Mrs. Graydon Franklin, Mrs. Steven Mikrut, Mrs. Carroll Stockton, Miss June Norbeck, of Sugar Grove, and Curtis Norbeck, Trenton, N. J.

The buffet table, centered with 35 Tallman roses, was presided over by Mrs. E. E. Swanson, Meadville, and Mrs. William Norbeck, sisters-in-law of the celebrants. Curtis Norbeck acted as an able master of ceremonies. The large wedding cake was made attractive with wedding bell decorations.

Among the guests were the original wedding attendants, Mrs. Victor Landin, sister of Mr. Norbeck, and E. E. Swanson, Meadville, brother of Mrs. Norbeck.

The wedding took place in Youngsville, with another brother of the bride, Rev. E. Fred Swanson, performing the ceremony. The Norbecks have resided in Sugar Grove township continuously since their marriage until two years ago, when they sold their farm and purchased a home on Main street.

The couple received many lovely remembrances of the occasion, as well as a great many greetings from guests present from Chautauque, Jamestown, Randolph, Falconer, N. Y.; Trenton, N. J.; Alexandria, Va.; Meadville, West Newton, Spring Creek, Youngsville and Chancellors Valley.

On Monday evening, the Norbeck children and their families enjoyed a dinner party with their parents and other guests of the evening took pictures of the group.

GLADE WCTU HEARS PRIZE SCHOOL ESSAYS

Glade WCTU members held their regular meeting at the summer home of Mrs. Kathryn Koebler, Shipman's Eddy, with the annual picnic dinner served on the lawn and reading of the prize essays in the meeting which followed.

The eight essays were read as follows: Irvinedale school—grade 6, "Enemy No. 1", Nancy Carlson, and "Alcohol Effects Family Social Life", Susan Gebhart; grade 5, "Alcohol's Place Is Outside the Body", Janet Whitmore, and "How Alcohol Effects Driving", Curtis Johnson. Lacy school—grade 6, "Why We Should Not Drink", Gayle Nossel, and "What Drinking and Tobacco Can Do", Sandra Goodwill; grade 5, "Alcohol", Robert Merenick, and "Enemies to Young People", Stanley Lundberg.

The first blood collection under Warren county participation in the National Red Cross program has reached a satisfactory conclusion. Citizens of this vicinity can thank the folks who arrived at Red Cross headquarters to leave a pint of precious blood that somebody else might live. Already several residents, hospitalized, have received Red Cross blood at no cost for the blood—those people now have a chance to return to health. BUT—of all the people living in Warren County, only enough volunteered as blood donors to take care of the first visit of Red Cross bloodmobile. From thousands came just a few hundred. Why is this?

Here is a program that gives direct aid to you, to your friends, to your neighbors, to your fellow citizens. Are there so many people who fail to respond to this remarkable nation-wide program?—who cannot grasp the tremendous power of such a program—who are so busy in their private You'd get it because others quietly assumed your responsibility. Warren residents will continue to get free blood ONLY as long as Warren is able to maintain its quota of 100 pints of blood a month.

SURELY you don't intend to let matters stand as they are today. YOU want to do your part, don't you? Phone 2926 for a blood donor pledge card TODAY—a pint of your blood, an hour of your time—and a life will be saved, perhaps your own.

Celebration Briefs

FOURTH OF JULY—LESS THAN ONE WEEK AWAY!

It's always surprising to note the amount of interest that's aroused as the celebration days get closer. The members of the various committees are spending all kinds of time handling final details as well as giving out information to those who want to take part in the festivities.

That 65-year-old high-wheeled bicycle that has been appearing in celebration parades periodically since 1932, will again be one of the features of the procession next Tuesday. The bike is owned by Mrs. Daisy Greenlund, St. Clair street, and will be ridden in the forthcoming parade by her grandson, Jimmy Lawson.

Johnny Newmaker and the Floats Committee is in a dither with last minute entries and making suggestions to prospective entries. Help make this committee's job easier by getting your entries in right away.

The Variety Show Committee, headed by Chuck Tranter and Bob Daye, is getting ready for a dress rehearsal on Thursday evening. By the way, don't be too surprised if this committee makes announcement of an outstanding act within the next day or so.

The Parade Committee, under

Jack Barr and Ben Kinnear, have many functions including the completion of parade orders, ascertaining if division chiefs, aides, band guides, and other personnel are familiar with their duties, making final arrangements for judging, and all other details which will allow the parade to start promptly at eleven o'clock on the morning of the Fourth.

Jim Lucke, in charge of the Fireworks Committee, is getting the various materials in readiness for the equipping of the firing area.

Tommy Conway, who with his committee is in charge of Memorial Field, is busy getting bleachers, snow fence and all other equipment necessary for the drum corps competition.

Glen Nelson, in charge of the public address systems for the entire celebration, reports that three units will have to be used in order to keep events running smoothly—one for the Vesper Service and Variety Show at Beaty School, one for the street dance on Second avenue, and one for War Memorial Field for the drum corps competition. In addition to these, Delbert Lewis has offered the use of his sound truck for the entire celebration.

S-P-O-R-T-S

(By Joe Gardner)

Looking back twenty years to May 27, 1930, we find that on the evening of the above date, the State Bankers' Baseball Club played the Mohawks, another Sunset League Club, on Russell Field and beat the Mohawks 11 to 1. With this beginning, the State Bankers went on to the league championship for two consecutive seasons. The lineup on May 27 of that year was Red Swanson, 3rd baseman; Sammy Hicks, short stop; Fitzgerald, now a city fireman, left field; Freddie Gebhart, center fielder; "Bob" Ritchie, 1st base; Paul Harrington, second base; Howard Potts, right field; "Skinny" Weldert, pitcher; Myron Javell, catcher; Gaylord Wilkie, Mike Blech, reserve pitchers; and Joe Gardner, manager and pinch hitter.

This year, twenty long years later, the former city league champions will once again put on their battered uniforms and play the first two innings of the Old Timers' game on July 29 at Memorial field. The following Sunday this club will hold their first reunion picnic at a cottage up the river from Hamlock. Boyd Hicks, Howard Potts and Skinny Weldert have left town. The rest of the club are still whole and hearty and will be expected to show themselves at the first game in the Jamestown Municipal Stadium July 16 at 2:00 p. m. in order to round into shape for the big game here July 29. Incidentally, the State Bankers won the May 27 game from no less a mound artist than the venerable Pike Peterson. When questioned about the 11 to 1 defeat, Pike said he did not believe that any club ever beat him that bad. The record still stands in the Times-Mirror office for all to see.

PONY LEAGUE

By The Associated Press

The new PONY League record book should have waited a couple of weeks for Bobby Alido, a 17-year-old rookie from West New York, N. J.

Alido, an outfielder for the Batavia Clippers, went to the plate six times last night and was walked every time for a league record. Ten men had been walked five times.

The youngster scored five times last night and was left aboard in the ninth as the Clippers laid low the Wellsville Senators, 14-5.

A walk with the bases loaded in the eighth inning gave first-place Olean a 2-1 edge over tail-end Lockport.

Ken Schramm hit a grand slam home run for the Jamestown Falcons in the seventh inning as they licked the Hornell Dodgers, 8-5.

The Bradford Phillies thumped the Hamilton Cardinals, 18-14.

Games tonight: Hornell at Bradford, Jamestown at Hamilton, Olean at Batavia, Lockport at Wellsville.

OILERS TOP MOHAWKS IN INDUSTRIAL LEAGUE

Emblem Oil trimmed the Tidouste Mohawks, 14-8, in an Industrial Softball League scrap on the West Side field last night.

Joe Scheerer led the Oilers at the plate when he hit safely in four out of five trips, and counted three of his team's runs.

The elder duck often attains a speed of 40 to 50 miles an hour in flight.

HARPER WINS PGA TITLE AT COLUMBUS

Columbus, June 28.—(AP)—The state of Virginia can continue in a state of elation.

Long used to crowing about its homebred hill-billy golf champion, Sam Snead, from Hot Springs, it now has Chandler Harper, too.

Harper, of the Portsmouth Harpers, won the national PGA title yesterday. He defeated little-known Hank Williams of Secane, Pa., 4 and 3, in the scheduled 36-hole finale over the rangy Scotto Country Club acres.

At 36, Harper succeeded Snead as PGA king. He became the oldest player to grab the crown since Jock Hutchison won in 1920 at the same age.

Harper is a very human sort of a guy and is a sports writer's champion. After his chores yesterday, he came to the press room. He was interviewed by the scribes while Scotto's country club patrons waited for nearly one-half hour outside for trophy presentation ceremonies.

Less Affluence, More Hustle Would Help Pampered Bosox

BY NED BROWN
Batting for Harry Grayson, NEA Sports Editor, who is on vacation

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—The time has come, perhaps a little earlier than usual this season, for baseball's best friends and severest critics to propound the query: "What's wrong with the Red Sox?" Are they suffering from a mass inferiority complex like the lowly St. Louis Browns? No; so they don't need a Dr. Tracy to stimulate sagging egos.

Besides, Owner Tom Yawkey never would let a mere psychologist contaminate his pets!

Nothing short of a whole staff of Viennese savants would be qualified to probe the minds of the Fenway Millionaires. For, win or lose, the Red Sox never had it so good.

There's an old saying that hungry athletes are the best athletes. The Dodgers are a hungry team—ravenous in fact, at times; most of the Cardinals have empty stomachs and there are plenty of regulars on the Yankees and Tigers who know what it means to hustle for a buck.

And that's what's wrong with the Boston Red Sox. / Whether they're in fourth place or last, the lavish purse of Mr. Yawkey is ever present.

EXHIBIT A: Ted Williams will earn more than $100,000 this season. A World Series check would add another five grand; most of this would go to Uncle Uno Who. Hence, lackadaisical Ted has about as much interest in winning the pennant as he has in the latest cricket scores from Jolly Ol' England.

Although they may look like poor country cousins compared to Ted, Bobby Doerr, Vern Stephens, Don Dillmaggio and Birdie Tebbelbs among others will never forget headlines.

The Red Sox regulars are among baseball's elite. Joe McCarthy's hands can belt that apple—or should we say rabbit? But somehow they manage to get 29 runs one day, lose 3-2 the next.

Admittedly they need more pitching; but no team can win without hustle and fire.

The Yanks and Dodgers have plenty of moxie, have many eager beavers riding the bench, just waiting a chance to play every day. Hence the regulars know they have to give it that old college try every moment they're on the field—or else.

The Bosox have no bench to speak of. First Baseman Walt Dropo might lose his job to Billy Goodman if he went into a tailspin. The rest are as permanent in Boston as Bunker Hill.

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—Apparently the New York Boxing Managers' Guild has been twisting Jim Norris' arm so hard they've made him wrestling conscious.

And so, out of a huddle with John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, the head of the International Boxing Club blandly announced that hereafter he has the option of staging wrestling instead of boxing on any or all of his dates.

Sounds innocuous enough, but it may prove a broadside under the waterline to the BMG craft.

The Guild has been squabbling and striking against the IBC for half the proceeds from television for boxing bouts. But wrestling has proven one of the mainstays of evening television entertainment, and the Guild has no jurisdiction over razzing.

Hence, the middleweight title bout between Jake LaMotta and Tiberio Mitri, European champion, July 26, may be the last boxing show in the Garden for a long, long time—and it may prove a K.O. to the Guild.

There are those along Beezer Boulevard who incline to the belief that the title may change hands when Jake meets Tiberio.

MITRI is blue-eyed, handsome, stands five-feet, 9½ inches, weighs 160 pounds. He was born in Trieste, July 12, 1926, has been fighting professionally since 1946 and has 51 ring battles.

He starts at 18, won 19 amateur fights in a row before fighting professionally.

Among his better known victims were Laurent Dauthuille, Cyrille Delannoit, Jean Stock and Dick Turpin—in Europe. In his only showing here, Mitri defeated Dick Wagner, Portland, Ore., light-heavyweight.

Broad-shouldered, Tiberio is a combination boxer-puncher, with a good left hook and jab. He's what is known in fistic parlance as a "crowd-pleaser."

His father died when Tiberio was four, and his mother supported the family of two boys and a girl by running a small restaurant in Trieste.

Mitri's favorite sport, strangely enough, is basketball, which he learned from American occupation troops. He is an avid reader of American authors on philosophy, translated into Italian.

Only five Italian-born fighters ever won world titles—Primo Carnera, Vince, Joe and Johnny Dundee, and Young Corbett III.

Tiberio Mitri vows he'll remain in America until he is the sixth. Maybe it won't be long now!

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

IMPOVERISHED HAND CAN PAY OFF RICHLY

Written for NEA Service. Nobody likes to hold absolutely worthless cards, but experienced bridge players know that careful play of even the worst cards will often pay dividends.

In today's hand, West's careful play of his miserable assortment of pasteboards directed his partner to the opening defense.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, dummy put up the king, and East won with the ace. East returned the queen of spades, and South won with the king. Declarer's only chance to make his contract was to draw only two trumps, saving the ace of hearts in dummy. He would then start on his clubs, expecting to use the ace of trumps as the entry to the established clubs.

Opening lead—♦ 2.

South therefore drew trumps with the king and queen of hearts and then led the ten of clubs.

West had carefully played the four and deuce of hearts in that order on the first two rounds of trumps. By this sequence, called the "trump echo," West had signaled his partner that he still had a third trump in his hand. On the lead of the ten of clubs from the South hand, West played the eight of clubs. This play in clubs was the beginning of a signal that showed only two clubs.

East properly refused the first round of clubs but took the second round. He knew that his partner was out of clubs, but he realized also that a third round of clubs would be ruffed high by declarer. South would then be able to lead a trump to dummy and get discards on the remaining clubs.

West's signaling had, however, indicated the correct defense. East cashed the queen of diamonds and then led the jack of diamonds, forcing dummy to ruff with the ace of hearts.

Since South had a losing spade in his hand, he had to risk a third round of clubs to discard the low spade. West ruffed, of course, thus taking the setting trick. I wonder how many bridge players would do as well with West's miserable cards!

While we're admiring West for staying awake despite his worthless cards, let's not forget to give East credit for fine defense. It's true that West signaled expertly—but that would have been useless if East had ignored or misunderstood the signals.

THE MARKETS

New York, June 28—(P)—An opening burst of buying sent the stock market steaming ahead today. The rally followed a two-day plunge, one of the worst Wall Street has seen in the past 20 years. Heavy selling was touched off by Korean developments. Gains ranged to around $3 a share before the edge of the advance was blunted. Familiar war-baby shares were among the most popular—aircrafts, chemicals, steels, rails and motors. Buying hit such a	hot pace that for about 12 minutes the high-speed ticker tape lagged in reporting transactions from the floor of the exchange.	New York, June 28—(P)—Noon stocks. Volume: 1,250,000. In all there are about 17 drum corps and seven bands participating in the day's events, including the band from the Meadville I. O. O. F. home, Warren High school, Warren VFW, Sheffield High, and Russell Volunteer Firemen.

The committee was informed the Pomona Grange, with Mrs. James Belton as chairman, has completed plans to serve the visitors at the luncheon at Beaty school. It was also announced that the Ministerial Association, with the Rev. Nore Gustafson, of St. Paul's Lutheran church, has arrangements about completed for the vespers service Sunday, which will be featured by music furnished by a choir under the direction of Byron Swanson.

Ben Kinnear announced that a meeting of the judges will be held at the Legion Home Thursday evening to make final arrangements for the big event Tuesday.

It was decided to secure a quantity of folding chairs to be sold as reserved seats at the drum field, and a call was issued by the committee on bleachers for help to start this important work Thursday evening at six o'clock.

Entries in the parade, it was announced by Ben Kinnear will be received up until Monday. They will be assigned places in one of the last five divisions. All division chiefs were asked to secure at least one person to act as guides for the musical organizations in their unit, and report same to either Ben Kinnear or Jack Barr.

NEW ELECTRONIC SYSTEM EXPEDITES THE SALE OF RAILROAD TICKETS

Copyright, 1950, by Acme Newspictures

TIBERIO MITRI TRAINING IN N.Y. TO REPLACE GRAZIANO IN FIGHT

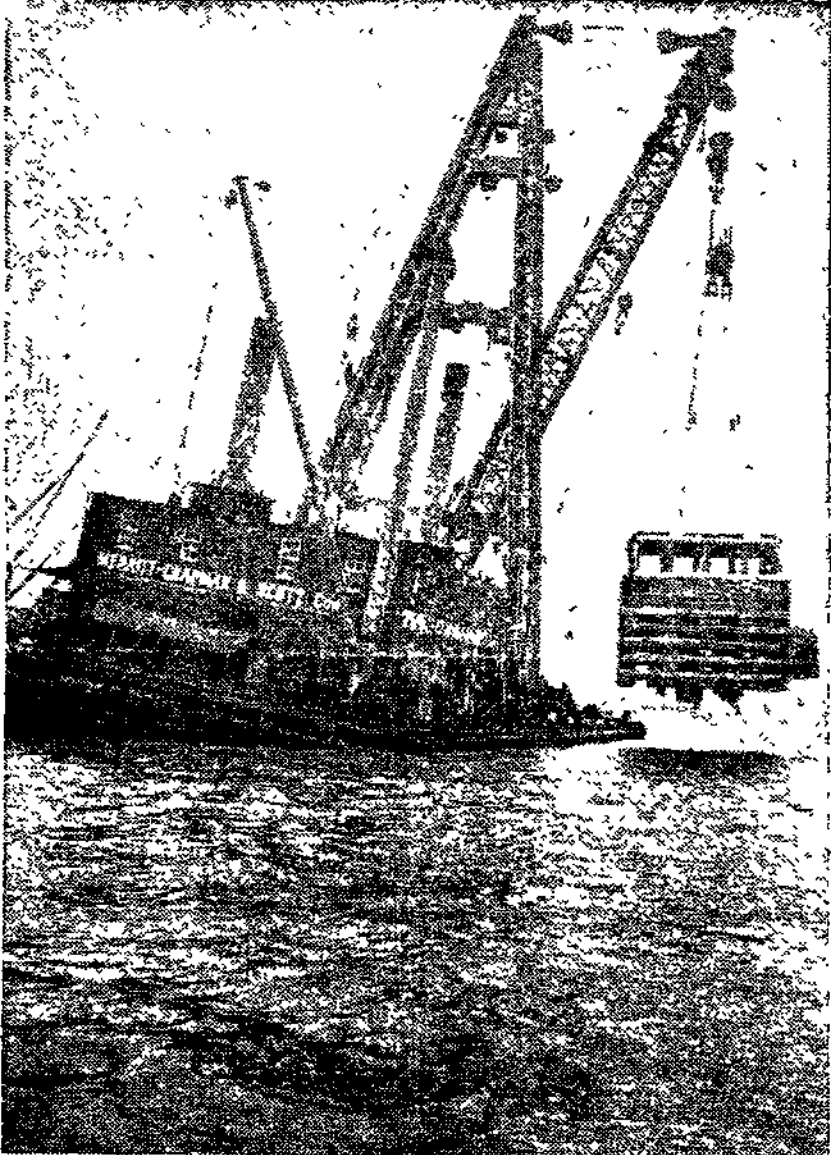

THE WANDERER—This snapping turtle was found drowsing in a flower bed in Chicago, Ill., and was very stand-offish when Betty Gillick introduced it to her beagle at the Animal Welfare League. But the dog wasn't too anxious to make friends with the reptile which was released in the forest preserve.

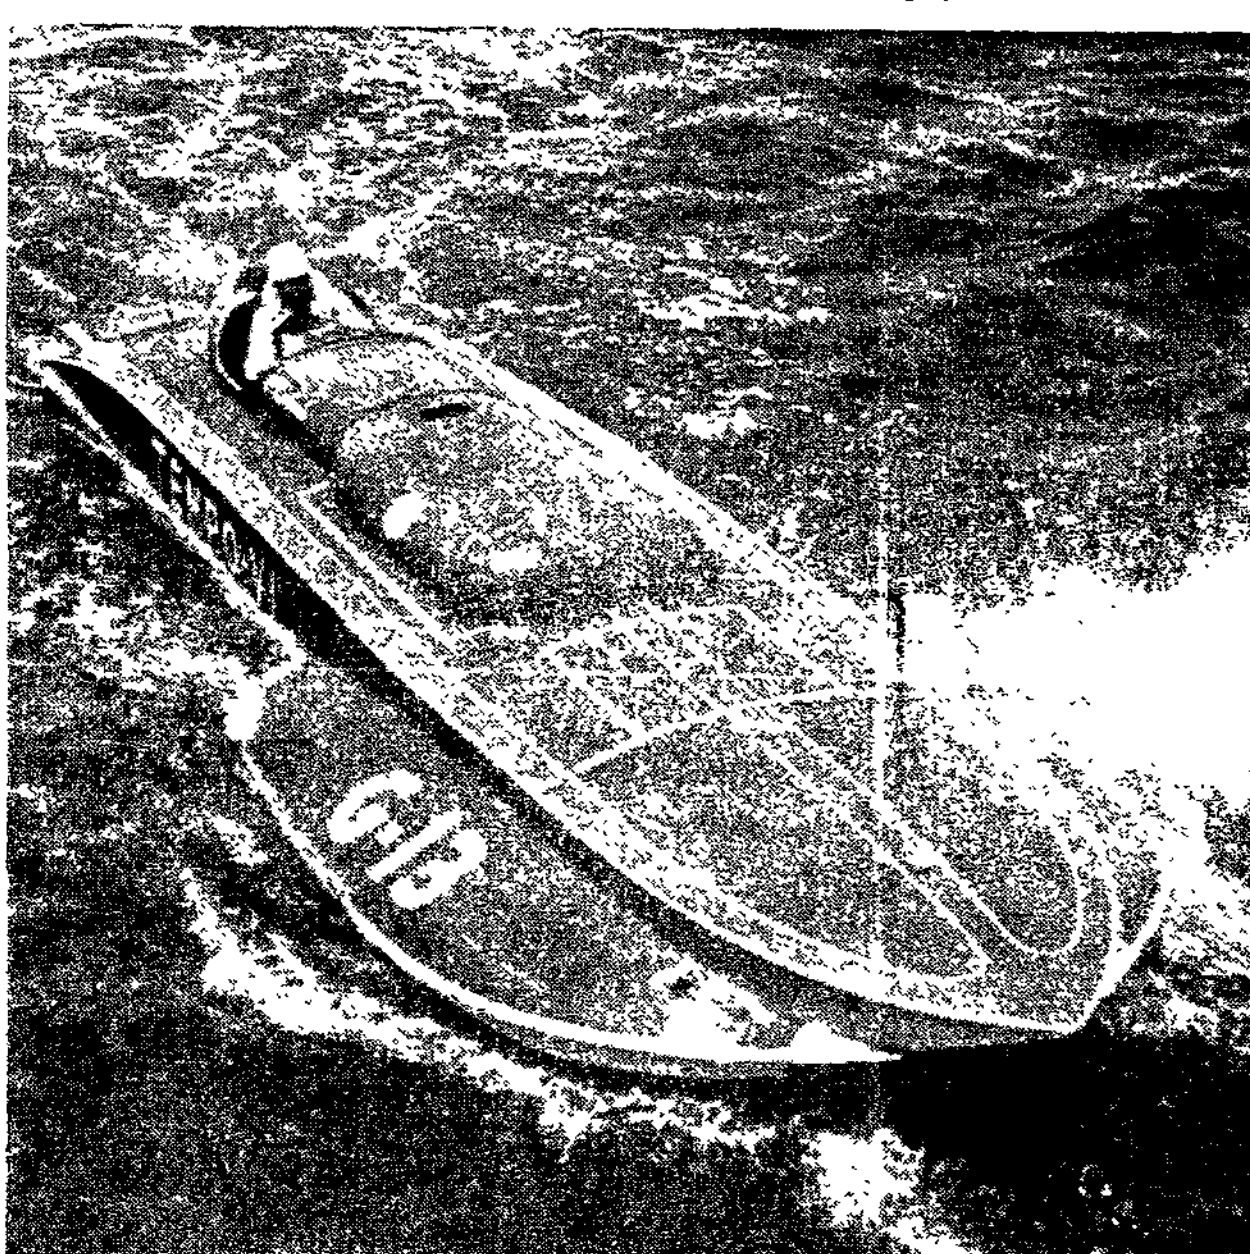

TICKETS BY TICKER—Mrs. Patricia Unger, a ticket seller for the Pennsylvania Railroad, used the new electronic system to put through a passenger's train reservation in New York. The dialed instrument on the counter is used to tune in on a recording which instantly tells the operator what space is available. The new equipment helps speed reservation making by as much as two-thirds.

RARE COLLECTION—Valerie Jackson, 12, is gazing in fascination at replicas of Queen Elizabeth and Sir Walter Raleigh, dressed in authentic 16th Century costumes, in London, England. A collection of dolls was shown to the public at the Galleries Lafayette to raise funds for needy children.

NEW INTAKE CRIB—A floating derrick lowers this huge intake crib into position in the Hudson River, near Chelsea, N. Y., where 100,000,000 gallons of water will feed through it daily into New York City's supply system. The projection on the crib's right side is a 72-inch joint of the intake which will hook into an underwater conduit leading to a pumping plant on shore.

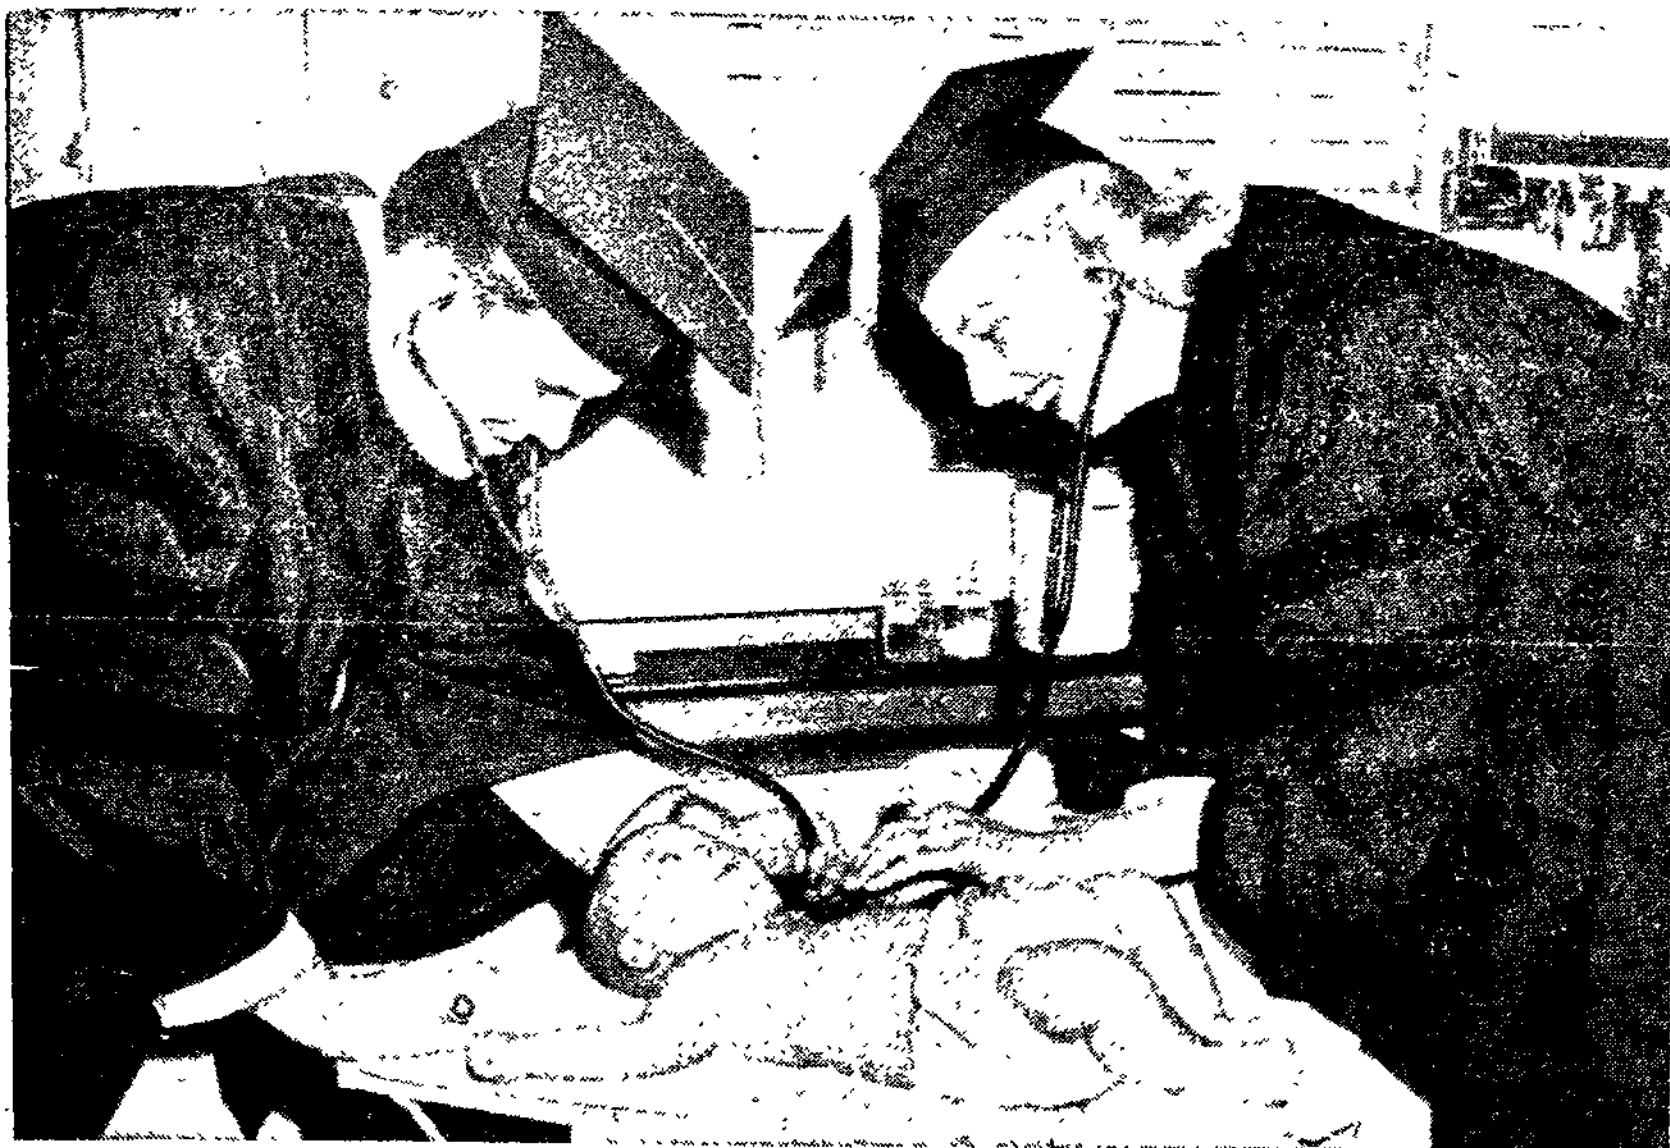

INCREASING THE TEMPO—Guy Lombardo's newly rebuilt Tempo VI, three-time winner of speed-boating's Gold Cup, skims over the water near Freeport, N. Y., in its first trial run since being remodeled. The Tempo VI is the past holder of many water speed marks, and has been lengthened six feet.

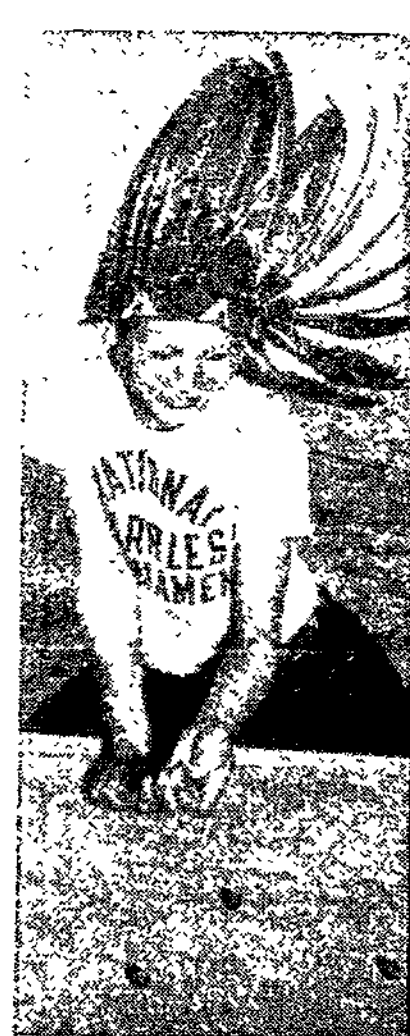

SOME GAL—Actress Adele Jergens presents this alluring pose to illustrate in Hollywood what is meant by the word glamour. The tall, shapely blonde, formerly a model, has all the attributes for considerable film success.

LIKE BABES IN THE WOODS—This mounted policeman's horse, in Vancouver, B. C., seems to be wondering if the baby faun and the kid were lost. And they had strayed from their zoo home in Stanley Park, so the horse really knew what he was wondering about.

HE HAS AN EXCLUSIVE—Four-month-old Marc Ely will never have to worry about finding the family doctor. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Ely, of Los Angeles, Calif., both received M.D. degrees from the University of Southern California. They met while attending the same anatomy class and were married during their pre-medical training.

PRACTICING—Matthew LaMere, 13, a native American Indian boy from Great Falls, Mont., is shown practicing for the 26th annual National Marbles tourney in Asbury Park, N. J. He wanted that title.

SECOND CHOICE—Italy's Tiberio Mitri let his manager, Saverio Turiello, examine his hand during a workout in New York, in preparation for his July 12th Madison Square Garden bout with Jake LaMotta. The bout, advertised as a middleweight title match everywhere except Pennsylvania, where Ray Robinson is recognized as middleweight champ, is a sub for the Graziano-LaMotta fight.

IT'S DEATH, MY DARLING!

By Amelia Reynolds Long

Chapter 6

SUNSHINE was pouring into our room the next morning when Uncle Bountiful brought us early morning coffee.

"Maw'nin', Miss Peter," he grinned at me when I opened the door. "I hopes you sleep well?"

"Yes, thank you, Uncle Bountiful," I answered, helping myself from his tray. "Even the dog couldn't keep me awake."

I wasn't prepared for the reaction that I got to that. He started so violently that the coffee cups rattled like chattering teeth.

"Dawg!" The word was a frightened gasp. "Did you heah a dawg howl, Miss Peter?"

He began to tremble as though he had been seized with a sudden chill. "Oh, Lawd!" he moaned. "Fust time, de night de cunneel died, now ag'in las' night! Dat's a shol sign."

He didn't explain what it was a "shol sign" of, but as soon as I had taken the two cups of coffee from the tray, he reeled on down the hall, still trembling and muttering.

I had finished dressing before Bobby was much more than started, so leaving her to primp at her leisure, I wandered out upon the upper gallery to enjoy the freshness of the morning. An outside staircase, its handrail covered by a trumpet vine in full bloom, beckoned me toward the garden below. I accepted its invitation.

The row of oleanders continued along the drive where it swept around the side of the garden. Admiring the large, fragrant blooms, I neared the end of the row, where it approached the old carriage house. I noticed that some of the plants appeared to be dying.

Just then I was hailed from the direction of the house, and turning, I saw Pick coming toward me. "Hello," she called. "Admiring the oleanders? They are lovely, aren't they?"

"They're beautiful!" I declared. "But I was taking time out to be sorry for these four."

"Oh, what a shame!" she exclaimed. "I wonder what . . ."

She began to examine the earth at their roots.

"Someone has been digging at them," she announced a moment later. "Look here, Peter."

As she held back the lower branches, I could see where the earth had been disturbed. "Grandpere was always so particular about the oleanders. I'm going to ask Uncle Bountiful if he knows how it happened."

"Speaking of Uncle Bountiful," I remarked as we started back toward the house, "I'm afraid I gave him a bit of a scare a while ago, although I'm not quite sure what about." I repeated the incident involving my reaction of the howling dog, and Uncle Bountiful's reaction.

Pick smiled.

"Superstition," she explained. "They believe that a dog howling portends death in the family of the dog's owner."

"I never thought of that," I admitted. "All that occurred to me at the time was how very much it sounded like a wolf howling."

"It's good you didn't say that to Uncle Bountiful," Pick observed. "He'd have been sure it was the Loup Garou."

"The what?" I asked.

"The werewolf," she elucidated. "It's a sort of vampire, you know. Lots of the colored people still believe in it."

"Oh, heaven!" I exclaimed incredulously.

We let the subject drop then, and went into the house to breakfast.

COLONEL Dumont's funeral was held that afternoon at two o'clock. Only the household and Mr. Simon Duval, the lawyer, who had come out from New Orleans for the reading of the will afterwards, were in attendance. Usually I find funerals depressing; but this one, with the men looking so romantically handsome in their Confederate uniforms, and the servants clustered in an awed and respectful group just outside the drawing room door, had about it an air that was almost glamorous.

Chapter 7

WHILE we waited for the men to return, Aunt Minerva managed somehow to herd us all into the larger drawing room, where she gave us a recital of the "improvements" she intended to make in the place as soon as Claude had come into possession. I saw Pick squirm, as though she were listening to the proposed torturing of a living, sentient thing. When finally Aunt Minerva announced her intention to have the oleanders dug out and destroyed because she had read somewhere that they gave off a poisonous vapor, it was more than Pick could stand. Muttering some unintelligible excuse, she rose abruptly and left the room. I made my excuses, and ducked out after Pick.

I was returning downstairs some quarter of an hour later after "putting on a new face," as Bobby expresses it, when I saw Aunt Delphine through the open door of the front parlor, where the funeral had been held. She was peering under chairs, as though in search of something.

"Can I help you, Aunt Delphine?" I asked.

She turned and gave me one of her vague smiles.

"Ish my teet," she confided. "I took 'em out while 'ey were clodging up Fader, an' now I can't fide 'em."

I suppressed a desire to laugh, and joined in the search.

"There they are, Aunt Delphine," I exclaimed, and pointed them out to her.

She recovered her missing denture, and popped it into her mouth.

"Merci, chérie," she said, her normal enunciation restored once more. Then she opened her little, crocheted handbag and took something from it.

"Here's a little present for you," she whispered, thrusting the object into my hand. "But you mustn't tell anyone except Dédé. The others musn't know about it." Then with a great show of secretiveness, she scurried from the room.

I glanced down at the thing she had given me. It was a little wad of red cloth, which fell apart as I looked at it, resolving itself into three little strips about a foot long and two inches wide. They had evidently at one time been tied to something; for one end of each still showed the marks of the knot.

"Now what in the world—" I murmured, wondering what it was all about, and why Aunt Delphine should have acted so mysteriously over three little strips of cloth. First the puzzle of the oleanders, and now this.

Just then sounds outside the house indicated that the men had returned. Perhaps Amédée could explain the significance of my "present"—that was, if it had any significance outside of an old lady's slightly befogged mind and over-active imagination.

Hearing someone come in, I went out into the hall in the hope that it was he. But it was Claude who had entered. He was walking rather stiffly, I noticed with nasty satisfaction; a caution due, no doubt, to lack of co-operation between him and the horse.

"Oh, it's you," I said undiplomatically before I could stop myself. "I thought it was Dédé."

HE GRINNED at me over the fat-bowled pipe which he was just about to place in his mouth.

"And now you're disappointed?" he asked. "Well, you must be. Why, honey child, if you'd just give me a chance—"

Then he spied the little, red streamers I was still holding, and his entire manner changed.

"What's that you've got there?" he demanded, starting toward me. "A red flag?" I answered, and hoped he'd get the point. But he didn't; he kept straight on coming.

"Where did you get those?" His manner, as much as the question itself, annoyed me. He couldn't use that tone to me and get away with it, and I intended to let him know it.

"I hardly think that matters," I retorted in a tone calculated to reduce the temperature of the hall by at least twenty degrees. I attempted to thrust the hand hold-
